Foreword

The second TY game was a little different to the first. As a studio, Krome had grown larger which meant I had new commitments to deal with and didn't have the longer lead-in time to work on designs like I had with the first game.

So, rather than me being a bottleneck, the super-talented Jared Pullen came onboard to handle a lot of the concept work. Which was great, because he's a way stronger artist in areas like environmental art, and it let me stick to my strengths – character design! Additionally, our plans for the game included a lot more urban structures - definitely not one of my favorite things to have to design - so Jared's skills were doubly appreciated! You'll recognize the difference in styles in the art, but I think it brought plenty of new ideas to the TY universe and worked well in the final game art.

I hope you enjoy this exhaustive look at the TY the Tasmanian Tiger™ 2: Bush Rescue™ art that I've put together and thank you for supporting the TY universe from me and all the team at Krome Studios.
